PLAN AND PURPOSE OF THE UNIVERSITY.

CORPORATE RIGHTS.

THE UNIVERSITY AT LEWISBURG was incorporated, with full University privileges, by an act of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, approved by the Executive authority on the fifth day of February, A. D. 1846. The management of the University is committed to a Board of Trustees, consisting of twenty members, and a Board of Curators, consisting of forty members. The State exercises no control in the affairs of the University, except that, (1) The Governor and the Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Judges of the Supreme Court of the State are, ex-officio, members of the Board of Curators, and (2) The Legislature reserves the right to alter or cancel this charter in case of any abuse of privilege. The Trustees are prohibited for any cause, or under any pretext whatever, from encumbering by mortgage or otherwise the real estate or any other property of the Institution. It is provided that no misnomer of the Corporation shall defeat or annul any gift, grant, devise, or bequest to the Institution, if the intent of the parties sufficiently appear. It is required by the Charter that no religious sentiments are to be accounted a disability to hinder the election of an individual to any office among the teachers of the Institution, or to debar persons from attendance as pupils, or in any manner to abridge their privileges or immunities as students in any department of the University. Application has been made for a change of the Charter, in accordance with the conditions of Mr. William Bucknell's offer of fifty thousand dollars, as found on page 34 of this Catalogue.

LOCATION.

The University is located at Lewisburg, near the geographical centre of the State, on the West Branch of the Susquehanna River, in a valley famous for healthfulness and beauty. In addition to the natural advantages of the site, the founders of the Institution appreciated the quiet of an inland town for economical support and retirement in study, particularly as it was found that other corporations had so located "their respective colleges as to leave, in the central and northern part of Pennsylvania, a region extending more than two hundred miles from East to West, and more than one hundred from North to South, wholly unoccupied by any literary institution above the grade of an ordinary academy." Since the founding of the University, the multiplication of railroads has rendered access easy to every part of the State. Arrangements have recently been made whereby all students of the University may ride over the lines of the Pennsylvania and the Reading railroads at excursion rates.

THE UNIVERSITY PROPERTY.

The buildings of the College and the Academy are situated in a grove of native trees, on the south side of the Borough of Lewisburg, and are included within a Campus of about twenty acres.

The College Buildings consist of a main edifice 80 feet square, with two wings—the East and the West—each 120 by 30 feet. In the Main Building are the Chapel, the Recitation Rooms, the Library, the Museum, Rooms for the Literary Societies, and Commencement Hall. The wings contain Dormitories, and Study Rooms heated with furnaces.

The Academy Building is on College Hill, and is well adapted to its purposes. It contains a large and commodious Chapel and School Room. Recitation Rooms, Society Hall, and Students' Parlor, together with the rooms of the Principal's family and the Matron, and accommodations for the Boarding Department. Valuable improvements have recently been made in rendering the building more comfortable and commodious.

The Institute Building stands in a Campus by itself, between the College and the borough, the grounds comprising about six acres. The Building is lighted with gas and heated with furnaces, and contains Recitation Rooms, Parlors, Apartments for students, a Boarding Department, and the rooms of the Principal and his family.

The University also owns a President's house and a Janitor's house.

The following statement presents the financial condition of the University :

The University has no debts.

ORGANIZATION.

The University embraces no professional schools, the Theological Department having been removed and re-organized as the Crozer Theological Seminary, at Upland, Pa. The University, as now organized, aims to impart sound instruction in all non-professional studies. To this end the Institution comprises three Departments: The College, for young men who wish a full course of study; the Academy, for young men or boys preparing for College, for teaching in the public schools, or for business; and the Institute, for young women in all branches. These three schools have separate Principals and occupy separate buildings, but are under one Corporation and have one President, and hence enjoy the advantages of inter-relation and co-operation without the disadvantages of too close connection.

COURSES OF STUDY.

The following Courses of Study may be pursued in the College:

I. THE CLASSICAL COURSE extends through four years, and aims to furnish a liberal education in the classics, the sciences, the arts, and literature. It comprises, substantially, the studies of the established college curriculum, with the addition of such branches as modern life seems to demand. Within recent years many improvements have been made in the text-books used: German, French, English Literature, Constitutional Law and Analytical Chemistry have been added as required studies, and Anglo-Saxon, Comparative Zoölogy, Microscopic Botany, American Literature, Italian and Spanish have been added as electives. Students who have satisfactorily pursued this course are admitted to the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

II. THE SCIENTIFIC COURSE also extends through four years, and aims to furnish a thorough training in all other advanced studies to those who desire to omit Greek. This course contains ten terms of Latin, and all the other studies of the Classical Course, except Greek. Students pursuing this course recite, except in Greek, with classical students. Those who have satisfactorily completed the studies of the course are admitted to the degree of Bachelor of Science.

In the selection of optional studies in each of the above courses, the choice must be made with the approbation of the Faculty.

III. THE ECLECTIC COURSE is not limited to any definite time, and does not lead to any degree. It is designed to furnish advanced instruction in literature, science, and the arts to such students as do not intend to pursue a regular course of study, but desire to select certain special branches. The College will furnish special students with such studies as they may elect only at the times announced in the Scheme of Daily Recitations, found on another page. Every student is required to select, at least, three studies from those taught during any given term, and these are to be pursued at the same time. Students will not be allowed to pursue studies for which they are not fully qualified by their previous training. A certificate will be given by the President at any time, stating what studies have been completed and the grade attained in them. This certificate will be accepted as equivalent to an examination, provided the holder, at any time, prefers to be transferred to either of the regular courses.

A conspectus of the regular Courses of Study is presented on pages 19—22.

REMARKS ON THE DEPARTMENTS OF STUDY.

The method of instruction in the College is partly by text-books, and partly by lectures, according to the nature of the subject discussed. Each Professor has his individual mode of imparting knowledge, and this, in the result, is advantageous to the learner. In general, the aim is to discuss each subject as far as possible as the subject-matter requires, yet all branches are presented practically, comparatively, and historically, with the view of leading the student to the apprehension of the subject as a whole, and in its organic relations, rather than to fill the memory with the phraseology of a text-book. The range and character of the instruction can be most accurately gathered from the following account of the different departments.

I. THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The end aimed at in this Department is to cultivate the power and the habit of (1) accurate thinking, (2) correct and effective composition, and (3) clear and forcible delivery. As the foundation of the first, LOGIC is included in this department, and is taught with reference to its uses as a test of arguments. In addition to the study of the text-book, practical exercises are introduced in the class-room, and some argumentative work is critically examined. A brief course of lectures, in which the history of logical doctrines is presented, supplements the recitations. Periodical COMPOSITIONS are required throughout the course from every student, and these are subjected to careful analysis and reconstruction. RHETORIC is systematically presented as the science of discourse, and the interest is quickened by class-room discussions, and selections from Blair, Campbell, Whately, Bascom, and others. Literature in its concrete forms is studied and criticised in the text-book on ENGLISH LITERATURE, and select authors are read and analyzed by the class. ANGLO-SAXON and AMERICAN LITERATURE have been recently introduced as optional studies. DECLAMATIONS are required once a month from all students except the seniors, who are required to deliver ORIGINAL ORATIONS. VOCAL CULTURE is taught practically as a means of health and elocutionary development early in the Freshman year.

II. THE LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The design of this Department is to give the student the most complete mental discipline possible by a thorough study of the structure of the Latin Language, and also to introduce him to the best writings of the old Roman Masters. During the Freshman, and a part of the Sophomore, year, the most critical examination of forms and constructions is required, and special attention is paid to Latin composition, the aim of this method being, in addition to mental discipline, to render the student so familiar with Latin constructions that he may be able to read the subsequent authors with facility and rapidity. The study during the remaining time is designed to acquaint him with the best thoughts of the Roman writers. In pursuance of this aim, especial attention is given to each author's style and his merits as a writer, with constant examination of the points alluded to in Philosophy, History, Biography, Antiquities, Law, etc. In poetical writings the rhythmical reading of the text is required. There is also carried on a critical and systematic study of English Etymology, tracing to their sources English words derived from the Latin. During each year lectures are regularly delivered on Roman History and Roman Antiquities, the course on the latter subject embracing such topics as Roman social and domestic life, amusements, warfare, slavery, etc. To those students who attain a high standing in this department an opportunity will be afforded to carry on a special course of study, under the Professor in charge of the department, embracing the works of Quintilian, Lucretius, Seneca and others.

The following Works of Reference are recommended in addition to the ordinary Lexicons and Grammars: Roman Literature—Teuffel, Cruttwell; Smith's Dictionary of Greek and Roman Biography and Mythology; Anthon's Dictionary of Greek and Roman Antiquities; Long's Classical Atlas; Becker's Gallus, Guhl and Koner's Life of the Greeks and Romans; Justinian's Institutes, Hadley's Introduction to Roman Law, and Mackenzie's Roman Law; Roman Histories—Niebuhr, Arnold, Merivale, Gibbon.

III. THE GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

In this Department the most prominent authors in the several lines of Greek History and Literature are selected for study. There are five terms of required Greek. Another term of optional study is provided, during which those who elect Greek will read selections from the Philosophical writings of Plato. Besides this, arrangements will be made, from time to time, for any who may desire to take a more extended course, either in the authors already read, or in others not named in the Curriculum. As the College is not a Theological school, no requirement is made in regard to the study of New Testament Greek; nevertheless this may be pursued as an extra study, and provision will be made to accommodate such as may wish to give time to it.

In order that subsequent progress may be more rapid and satisfactory, in the earlier part of the course the classes are taken through a thorough drill in grammatical analysis. Careful attention is bestowed upon the peculiarities of construction and the study of words in regard to their origin and the modifications which their meanings undergo in composition. The Etymology of English words derived from the Greek is also made a subject of study. In translating, there is required as literal a rendering of the text as is consistent with a clear understanding of the author, particular care being taken to compare the idiomatic expression of the Greek with that of our own language. At the same time a freer rendering is encouraged in written translations, which are required from each one at regular intervals. These are carefully examined and returned with such corrections and suggestions as may be necessary. As advancement is made, attention is given to a higher range of instruction, the special aim being to aid the student in the development of a generous culture, by introducing him to the treasures of thought contained in the Greek Language. In pronouncing the Greek, attention is paid to the written accents. In Greek Poetry the rhythmic reading of the text is required. In writing the sentences in Prose Composition, the rules of accentuation are observed.

Besides the text-books named in the Curriculum and the necessary Lexicons, and the Classical Dictionaries and Atlas mentioned in the Department of Latin, the following works are recommended for reference and for reading: Pillon's Greek Synonyms; Veitch's Irregular and Defective Verbs; White's Greek Rhythm and Metre; Smith's, Cox', and Curtius' Histories of Greece; Gladstone's Juventus Mundi; Geddes' Problem of the Homeric Poems; Schliemann's Mycenæ, Troy, and Ilios; Becker's Charicles; Felton's Ancient and Modern Greece; Mahaffy's Social Life of the Greeks; Mahaffy's History of Classical Greek Literature; Eschenberg's Manual of Classical Literature; Grote's History, especially the chapters on Homer, Socrates, and Plato; Zeller's Socrates; Jebb's Attic Orators; Brédif's Demosthenes.

IV. MODERN LANGUAGES.

There are daily recitations in both French and German for a period of twenty-six weeks. Attention is given, first, to the elements of Grammar; afterwards, to the critical reading of some of the masterpieces of either language. Care is taken to cultivate an accurate pronunciation. The subject of French Prosody is fully explained and illustrated, and the historical development of the French Language is considered so far as is necessary to render Modern French intelligible. A series of lectures is given treating of the more prominent French and German authors, and in which the nature of their special influence on their respective literatures is indicated. Instruction is carried far enough to enable any student of average capacity to continue the study of either language with entire success by his own unaided efforts.

Spanish and Italian may each, as optional studies, be pursued in a daily recitation for a term of thirteen weeks.

V. PURE AND APPLIED MATHEMATICS.

The required course embraces Solid and Spherical Geometry, Higher Algebra, Trigonometry, Surveying, Analytical Geometry, Natural Philosophy, (Mechanics and Physics,) and Astronomy. The Differential and Integral Calculus is elective with Analytical Chemistry.

The great aim in this Department is to make the knowledge of these sciences thorough and practical, and neither work nor time is spared in the effort to accomplish this. Students are encouraged to ask questions and to present new views and topics of thought. As in the other departments, daily recitations are had in every study, and the hours of recitation are devoted to faithful drill and constant illustration. It is believed that the Physics and Astronomy can be made more valuable and instructive, if not so entertaining, by the use of good text-books, than by lectures. Yet the instruction in these subjects is by no means confined to the text-books. In the class-room the text-book is supplemented by the results of the latest investigations in these subjects. Students make use of the College Library and the current periodicals of the Reading-room in their investigations. Constant use is made of the physical apparatus. In Astronomy the telescope is always at the service of the students. In Surveying and Trigonometry abundant field practice with good instruments is given.

VI. THE PHYSICAL SCIENCES.

GENERAL CHEMISTRY is taught by text-book and by lectures. Every chemical substance mentioned in the lesson is placed on the lecture-table, to be examined by the student before the recitation. In the lecture-room is a case of minerals illustrating the natural and commercial sources of the elements and their more common salts. Students are required to make themselves familiar with all the chemical substances and minerals mentioned in their text-book or in the lectures. The lectures are designed to bring before the student all recent important advances in Theoretical and Practical Chemistry, and to give other important matter not found in the text-book. They are delivered, on an average, once a week.

Works for Reference: Miller's Elements, three volumes; Bloxam's Principles; Roscoe and Schorlemmer's Elements; Watt's Dictionary of Chemistry; Prescott's Organic Chemistry.

ANALYTICAL CHEMISTRY.—The laboratory has recently been refitted and students now have the opportunity of experimenting and doing practical work in it.

Two courses are offered. First, one in chemical manipulation, in which the student performs the experiments mentioned in his text-book, and thus becomes familiar with the use of the apparatus and learns how to experiment. This course occupies about three hours a week during two months, and is taken up during the latter portion of the time devoted to General Chemistry. The second course is in General Analytical Chemistry. Students examine sixty known solid and liquid substances, noting their various re-actions. They are then given unknown substances, several in one mixture, which they are required to determine. The course is completed when sixty unknown mixtures have been determined and correctly reported. This course is open only to students who have completed the course in General Chemistry and passed the examinations on the same. In all the chemical courses, students are charged for all the material which they use and for apparatus which they may break. To cover these charges a deposit in advance of ten dollars is required to be made with the Treasurer of the University.

Special instruction will also be given to students who desire it in Medical Chemistry and Toxicology, and in Blowpipe Analysis of Minerals.

Books of Reference: Douglass and Prescott's Tables, Prescott's Elements of Qualitative Chemistry, Fresenius' Qualitative Chemistry, Thorpe's Qualitative Chemistry, Wormley on Poisons, Harley on Urine, Vaughan's Physiological Chemistry, Storer's Dictionary of Solubilities, Brush on Blowpipe Analysis, Elderhust on Blowpipe, Dana's System of Mineralogy, Wheeler's Medical Chemistry.

PHYSIOLOGY AND HYGIENE.—The great importance of these studies is recognized. Instruction is given by means of text-book and of lectures, and supplemented by laboratory practice. The skeleton, the muscles, the internal organs, and all the tissues of the body, as far as possible, are studied in the laboratory. The student is recommended to use, constantly, scalpel and microscope. Several hours each week will be required for laboratory work. The lectures amplify the text. Hygiene in all its important branches is carefully studied. These studies are illustrated with an excellent skeleton, manikin, numerous dry and wet preparations, and fresh specimens.

Works of Reference: Carpenter, Dalton, Foster, Cleland, Marshall, and Flint on Physiology; Wilson, and Buck on Hygiene.

BOTANY.—There is no study which, when rightly pursued, can better develop and strengthen the perceptive powers of the mind than Botany.

After a few weeks spent in the study of botanical terms and the Anatomy of plants, studied from plants and charts, the student commences to analyze plants. At first this is done in the class. Each student has the same plant, and also a blank schedule which requires an exhaustive analysis of the root, stem, leaf, flower, and fruit. One student reads off the characters of the plant from the plant itself, following the order of the schedule. In a few days students are able to do this readily. They may then perform the analyses in their rooms. As an evidence of work done the analyses are required to be written out with ink, and students cannot pass the study until sixty of these are presented. The botanical text-book is used only for its key, by means of which the name of the plant is found, but the name is, by this method, the last thing obtained; all the visible characters are first studied. An advanced course in Plant Physiology and Anatomy is open to students qualified. A course of lectures on Plant Anatomy and Plant Physiology concludes this course. Henslow's charts form a part of the available equipment.

References: Gray's Structural Botany, Darlington's Flora Cestricea, Sach's Text-Book, Lindley's Vegetable World, Besey's Botany, Cooke's British Fungi.

MINERALOGY.—A course of twenty lectures on Descriptive Mineralogy is given to the Junior Class. Each lecture is followed by laboratory work in determination of unknown specimens. The collection of minerals belonging to the College has just been re-arranged with special reference to this work. A course in Blowpipe Analysis is offered to advanced students.

GEOLOGY.—Instruction is given by text-book and by lectures, and supplemented by laboratory practice. The course opens with laboratory work in Mineralogy and Lithology. Each student is required to collect and to label correctly all the minerals and rocks within a radius of several miles of the College. All accessible fossils are carefully studied. Instruction in Field Geology is given in the field. Laboratory work is required throughout the course.

Works of Reference: Lyell's Principles of Geology, Le Conte's Elements of Geology, Government and State Reports, Dana's System of Mineralogy, and Manual of Mineralogy and Lithology, Roger's Geology of Pennsylvania.

ZOOLOGY.—In this study, instruction by text-book and by lectures is combined with laboratory practice. The laboratory is provided with material and with compound microscopes sufficient in number to afford opportunity to each student of devoting several hours a week to practical work. A small charge is made for the use of instruments.

An advanced course devoted to original research is offered to students qualified.

VII. POLITICAL ECONOMY AND CONSTITUTIONAL LAW.

Among the late improvements in the courses of study, we regard the re-introduction of Constitutional Law and the larger space devoted to Political Economy as one of the most important. Both subjects are taught by lectures and readings.

POLITICAL ECONOMY is considered as the science of exchanges, and is followed into its practical applications in manufacturing, banking, national credit, and international commerce. The outlines of the lectures with references to standard authorities are furnished to the student in sheets privately printed, and, after oral comments by the instructor, are studied by the learner and recited, with free class-room discussions.

Works of Reference: Adam Smith's Wealth of Nations; Malthus' Essay on Population; Mill's Principles; Roscher's Principles; Walker's Science of Wealth; List's National Economy; Jevons' Mechanism of Exchange; Sumner's American Currency; Walker's Wages, and Money; Cairne's, Fawcett's, Wayland's, Perry's, and Say's Manuals; and Blanqui's History of Political Economy.

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES is analyzed and explained by lectures, with references to commentators. Its doctrines are compared with those of the English Constitution, and the sources of its principles are exhibited historically. The theories of Government are discussed comparatively, and referred to their grounds in Law and Ethics. The course is concluded with a brief exposition of International Law.

Works of Reference:

Hickey's Constitution of the United States.

Story on the Constitution.

Pomeroy's Constitutional Law.

The Federalist.

Writings and speeches of Hamilton, Madison, Jay, Adams, Jefferson, Webster, and Calhoun.

Creasy's History of the English Constitution.

Lieber's Civil Liberty.

VIII. PSYCHOLOGY, ETHICS, AND PHILOSOPHY.

The branches taught in this Department are Psychology, Ethics, the History of Philosophy, Natural Theology, and the Evidences of Christianity. The aim of the instructor is, to build up the student's confidence in fundamental truth, and its practical applications to life and conduct. To this end, the learner is brought face to face with the philosophical questions of the day, and is taught to solve them in the light of his own experience, and to rely upon his own conclusions.

PSYCHOLOGY is taught at present from Porter's "Intellectual Science," but after 1881 will be taught by lectures, with required theses by the students, written after a prescribed course of reading. The method of study is inductive, based on the facts of consciousness.

Works of Reference: Porter's Human Intellect; Hamilton's Lectures on Metaphysics; Kant's Critique of Pure Reason; Mill's Analysis of the Human Mind; Mill's Examination of Hamilton; McCosh's Examination of Mill; Calderwood's Relations of Brain and Mind; Calderwood's Philosophy of the Infinite; Day's Ontology; Janet's Final Causes; Jevons' Principles of Science; and the writings of Locke, Reid, Stewart, Brown, Bain, Spencer, and Lewes.

ETHICS is treated as a form of inferential Psychology, and its principles are impressed upon the learner as logical results of the facts of his nature. The text-book now used is Calderwood's "Handbook of Moral Philosophy," but after 1882, the instruction will be given by lectures. Special pains are taken to state and refute the erroneous theories of moral law, and to establish moral distinctions upon the intuitions of the mind. A short course of lectures on PRACTICAL ETHICS is delivered to the Freshman Class at the beginning of their course of study, having in view the formation of character and the regulation of conduct.

Works of Reference: Sidgwick's Methods of Ethics; Wutke's Ethics; Blackie's Four Phases of Morals; Kant's Metaphysic of Ethics; Birk's Utilitarianism; and portions of the writings of Mill, Bain, Spencer, and Darwin.

THE HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY is presented wholly by lectures. The attention is directed mainly to the development of speculative thought since the time of Descartes, and the method pursued is both historic and analytic, aiming to show what fundamental truths have been established. Living philosophers are included within the range of discussion, and their relation to the problems of life is pointed out.

NATURAL THEOLOGY is considered as the culmination of Philosophy, and is based upon the facts of Psychology and Ethics. This subject is taught wholly by lectures.

THE EVIDENCES OF CHRISTIANITY are treated by the method of historical criticism in a short course of lectures. The French and German skeptical theories are stated and reviewed in the light of the laws of evidence.

The principal Works of Reference in these subjects are:

Ritter's, Ueberweg's, Morell's, Lewes', and Bowen's Histories of Philosophy.
Stephens' History of English Thought in the Eighteenth Century.

McCosh's Scottish Philosophy.

Lange's History of Materialism.

Frothingham's Transcendentalism in New England.

ATTENDANCE.

It is evident from the methods of study pursued in the College that any absence whatever during a session, whether at the beginning or the close, must be a serious disadvantage to the student. Much of the instruction is of such a character, being in the form of regular lectures or oral explanation in the class-room, that students who are not present cannot possibly make up their losses. Only under the most exceptional circumstances will excuse be granted to leave College during term-time. In such exceptional cases the examinations on the studies gone over by the class, during a student's absence, will be specially searching, and a high degree of attainment will be exacted. One who is absent during an entire term must almost necessarily lose his standing in his class. The work of the session begins on the day of opening, and recitations are expected at the first hour appointed for the meeting of the classes. The work continues uninterruptedly, with the exception of holidays marked in the calendar, until the last day of the session.

TIME AND CONDITIONS OF ADMISSION.

Examinations for admission will be held on Monday morning preceding Commencement, June 28th.

Candidates for admission are to assemble on that day in the College Chapel, at 8:30 o'clock.

As the examinations are conducted partly in writing, each applicant must come prepared with pencil and paper.

Examinations for admission are also held on the day preceding the opening of each session.

In special cases, candidates may be examined and admitted at other times in the year.

In order to enter the Classical Course, the student must sustain an examination in the following studies:

ENGLISH.

1. Writing from dictation.
2. English Grammar.
3. Elements of Rhetoric—Invention, Style, and Punctuation.

MATHEMATICS.

1. Arithmetic, including the Metric System.
2. Algebra—to Quadratic Equations.
3. Geometry—four books of Davies' Legendre.

LATIN.

1. Latin Grammar—Harkness' preferred.
2. Harkness' Latin Prose Composition—Part I.
3. Two books of Cæsar's Commentaries.
4. Four of Cicero's Orations.
5. Four books of Virgil's Æneid.

GREEK.

1. Greek Grammar—Goodwin's preferred.
2. Jones' Greek Prose Composition—12 Lessons.
3. Greek Reader.
4. Three books of Xenophon's Anabasis.
5. One book of Homer's Iliad.

HISTORY.

1. Smith's Smaller History of Rome—to Chapter XV.
2. Smith's Smaller History of Greece—to Chapter XIII.
3. Elements of United States History (Scientific Students only.)

SCIENCE.

1. Geography—Descriptive, Political, and Physical.

2. Students are recommended to read Norton's Natural Philosophy, Moorse's First Book in Zoölogy, Gray's How Plants Grow, and Dana's Geological Story Briefly Told.

To enter the Scientific Course, the applicant must sustain an examination in the above named studies, except the Latin, Greek, and Grecian and Roman History.

Applicants are expected to come well prepared in the English branches named above, since they will be as strictly examined in these studies as in the Ancient Languages and Mathematics.

Satisfactory equivalents will be accepted instead of the text-books named.

Applicants for admission into advanced classes are examined as above, and also in the studies gone over by the class which they desire to enter.

The required age for admission into the Freshman Class is fifteen years. A proportionate increase of age is required, if advanced classes are to be entered.

Applicants for admission must furnish to the President satisfactory testimonials of good moral character, and, if they come from another College, must present certificates of honorable dismissal.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS FOR ADMISSION.

Upon the recommendation of the Alumni Association it has been decided to hold entrance examinations for College at other places than at Lewisburg. The following committees have been appointed to take charge of these examinations in the places named:

In Philadelphia, Rev. A. J. Rowland, D. D.; Rev. J. G. Walker, A. M.; Rev. I. C. Wynn, D. D.; and Rev. A. G. Thomas, A. M.

In Pittsburg, Rev. B. F. Woodburn, D. D.; Rev. J. S. Wrightnour, A. M.; Mr. F. M. Higgins; and Rev. T. H. Chapman, A. M.

In Harrisburg, George H. Irwin, A. M.; Rev. J. T. Judd, A. M.; Dr. Hiram McGowan, A. M.; and Mr. M. W. McAlarney.

In Scranton, Rev. David Spencer, A. M.; Rev. B. W. Thomas; Hon. Lemuel Amerman, A. M.; and Rev. John H. Harris, A. M.

These examinations will be held upon Friday, June 23d.

Those intending to present themselves for examination at these places should inform the President of the University of their intention.

LECTURES.

In addition to the Class-room Lectures, the following Courses of Lectures have been established. Unless otherwise specified, the Lectures are given on Thursday mornings, immediately after the Chapel exercises, are for one hour each, and continue through the year.

SENIOR CLASS.

The President every week on the History of Philosophy, Natural Theology, and the Evidences of Christianity.

JUNIOR CLASS.

Professor Groff every week from September 15th, 1881, until March 23d, 1882, on Descriptive Mineralogy. Professor Bartol every week from March 30th, 1882, until June 22d, on American History.

SOPHOMORE CLASS.

Professor Grier every week, excepting every fourth one, from September 15th till March 30th, on Roman History and Literature. Professor Loomis every week, excepting every fourth one, from April 6th till June 22d, on French History and Literature.

FRESHMAN CLASS.

Professor Waffle every other week from September 15th, 1881, until June 22d, 1882, on Vocal Culture, and English History. Professor Loomis every fourth week, beginning October 6th, 1881, on Mediæval History.

On Monday mornings, during the first part of the first session, the Freshmen have lectures on Practical Ethics by President Hill. From December 1st, 1881, until January 30th, 1882, lectures on Hygiene are delivered by Professor Groff. Beginning with February 6th, 1882, they are to have weekly lectures by Professor Tustin on Grecian Antiquities, History, and Literature.

In 1882-83 it is proposed to secure lectures on various topics of interest from eminent men not connected with the College.

RHETORICAL EXERCISES.

Every student of the lower Classes has an appointment in Composition and Declamation at regular intervals throughout the year.

The Senior and Junior Classes have their Rhetorical Exercises before the whole College, and each Senior is required to deliver not less than five original Orations each year, two in the first session and three in the second, on such days as may be appointed.

The Rhetorical Exercises for the Senior and Junior Classes occur on Monday mornings, and for the Sophomore and Freshman Classes on Thursdays.

The Public Exhibition of the Junior Class in Oratory will take place, during the present College year, on Friday evening, May 26th, 1882.

THE LIBRARIES AND READING-ROOM.

The Libraries of the College are four:

THE COLLEGE LIBRARY contains about 8,500 bound volumes, besides several thousand unbound pamphlets. The room in which it is kept has been furnished recently with handsome black-walnut cases. The Library is opened daily for the consultation of books; and every Saturday, from eleven to twelve o'clock in the morning, for the drawing of books.

THE THETA ALPHA SOCIETY'S LIBRARY is deposited in the Society's Hall, and contains about 600 volumes.

THE EUEPIAN SOCIETY'S LIBRARY is also in the Hall of the Society, and contains about 550 volumes.

THE SOCIETY FOR MORAL INQUIRY'S LIBRARY consists mainly of works relating to Missions and Missionary fields, and contains about 300 volumes. It is proposed by a friend to make this a complete collection of literature pertaining to Missions.

All the Society Libraries may be used, either directly or indirectly, by any member of the College.

A READING-ROOM ASSOCIATION is maintained by the Faculty and students of the College, which provides a large supply of daily, weekly, and monthly periodicals, besides most of the leading Quarterlies and Reviews of this Country and Great Britain. The library-room is used as a reading-room by the Association, thus affording opportunity of consulting Works of Reference.

BENEFACTIONS.

During the past year the sum of one hundred thousand dollars has been added to the Endowment of the University by the gift of Mr. William Bucknell, of Philadelphia, and the subscriptions of other friends. Of this amount Mr. Bucknell gave fifty thousand, and the other friends another fifty thousand dollars. This gift was conditioned upon a concentration of the funds of the University, and the substitution of a single Board of Trustees, to consist of twenty members, for the present Boards of Trustees and Curators. Steps have been taken to concentrate the funds, and the Boards of Control have applied to the Court for a reorganization of corporation.

Additions to the Museum will be thankfully received. It is suggested that an attempt be made to make a complete collection of the implements of the Indians who once lived in the Buffalo Valley.

Zoölogical specimens of all kinds are much needed, especially marine and fresh water forms of life, insects, and skeletons of vertebrated animals. It is hoped that friends of the University, when visiting at the seaside, will remember its wants in this respect and collect and forward the varied forms of animal life, which in such case should be placed in jars and covered with 50 per cent. alcohol. A much larger collection of birds and mammals would be very advantageous. The botanical collection is small, and its increase greatly desired. The mineral cabinet needs about 200 specimens to make it an excellent working collection. In the geological cabinet are needed complete sets of American and especially Pennsylvania rocks. The aid of friends in securing these is earnestly solicited.

The following donations have been received during the past year:

Professor G. M. Philips, minerals; 125 mineral and geological specimens from Rev. Edwin McMinn, of Easton, Pa.; specimens from Mr. John A. Gundy, Mr. Ellis Gundy, Professor F. W. Tustin, Mr. William Frear, William M. Datesman, Milton Evans, Henry Madtes, Samuel Blair, M. D., Adam H. Bearer, T. Thornton, M. D., A. J. Shoemaker, S. G. Reading; Professor G. G. Groff, a collection of 300 minerals; W. F. Seibold, M. D., a stag's horn from Elk county, Pa.; a collection of minerals of Chester county from Mr. W. W. Jefferis, of West Chester, Pa.; from the State Geological Survey a collection illustrating the rocks of South-eastern Pennsylvania.

LABORATORY AND APPARATUS.

The Laboratory is supplied with apparatus and chemicals for a thorough course of instruction in General Chemistry. Special attention is paid to experimental illustration, and each student is furnished with the requisite appliances to perform, under the direction of the Professor in this department, the experiments described in the text-book, and such others as may be necessary to elucidate, satisfactorily, the subject under study. The Chemical Laboratory has during the past year been fitted up for complete courses in Analytical Chemistry.

Rooms have recently been fitted up for Anatomical and Physiological Laboratories; they are pleasant and well lighted, and are furnished with compound microscopes and other apparatus necessary for successful work in these studies. It is the intention to grant ample facilities in these studies.

THE ART COLLECTION.

The beginning has been made of a collection of paintings, casts, engravings, and heliotypes, for the illustration of the Fine Arts. The specimens now in possession of the College number about five hundred, of all kinds, and furnish very considerable aid in illustrating the principles, and to some extent the history, of painting and sculpture.

Toward the close of each year a short course of illustrated parlor-lectures is given by the President to the Senior Classes of the College and the Institute. The topics treated of in these lectures will be varied somewhat from year to year. For 1882 the lectures will be on "The Origin and Principles of the Arts of Design."

STANDING.

Each Instructor records, in numbers ranging from 0 to 10, the character of the recitations of every student reciting to him, and notes also any delinquency in conduct and attendance. The Weekly summary of these markings is recorded in a permanent book, and constitutes the basis for determining the standing of the student during his connection with the Institution.

Unexcused absences from recitation are counted as zeros in making up the weekly averages.

At the close of each Session an average of these marks is made out, and a report of the scholarship, attendance, and conduct of each student is transmitted to his parent or guardian by the President.

No student is advanced from one class to another whose average in any study is less than 7.

Appointments in the Graduating Class are made according to the aggregate standing of each member during his entire course. But in assigning these parts, the Faculty take into account the deportment of the student as well as his marks for recitations.

The minimum average for an Oration of the First Class is fixed at 9, and for an Oration of the Second Class, at 8.

Providing conduct and attendance upon College exercises have been satisfactory, the Valedictory Addresses are given to the one who is highest in his class, and the Latin Salutatory, to the one who is next.

PUBLIC WORSHIP.

The College duties of each day are opened with religious services in the Chapel, which all the students are required to attend.

Attendance upon public worship at some Church in town on Sunday morning is required. Students must attend the religious services held on Thanksgiving Day.

On the Day of Prayer for Colleges, religious services are held in the College Chapel in the forenoon, and a sermon is preached by the President, or by some one at his request. All the students are required to attend. In the afternoon, prayer meetings are held in the different Departments of the University, and in the evening, in connection with some of the Churches in town, attendance upon which is urged, though not required.

There is maintained by the students a prayer meeting on Tuesday evenings, attendance on which is optional.

The Society for Inquiry holds occasional meetings for prayer and conference in the interest of Missions.

PRIZES.

THE FINN PRIZES.

Mr. John M. Finn, of Philadelphia, of the Class of 1854, has established the following Prizes:

A First Prize, either in money or in books, is offered to the student who gives evidence of the best preparation on the studies required for admission to College, and a Second Prize for the second best preparation. The awards are to be made within one month from the opening of the First Session.

The First Prize for the present year was awarded to Carl Clayton Law, fitted for College in the University Academy; and the Second Prize to Joseph Evans Sagebeer, fitted for College partly in the Conshohocken High School and partly in the University Academy.

THE LUNG PRIZE.

Rev. A. H. Lung, of the Class of 1853, offers an Annual Prize, either in money or in books, to the member of the Junior Class whose performance at the Annual Junior Exhibition is in all respects the best.

This Prize was awarded last year to Benjamin Laisdell Herr, with honorable mention of Horace Chandler Hall, the Committee of Award being Hon. Alfred Hayes, A. M., George Barron Miller, A. M., Rev. William W. Criley, A. M.

THE PRIZE OF THE CLASS OF 1871.

This Prize, established by the Class of 1871, consists of the sum of twelve dollars, to be awarded to the student in the Freshman Class who shall prove himself best prepared for College in the two branches, Latin and Mathematics, and who shall have received his preparatory training in the University Academy.

THE HERBERT TUSTIN PRIZE.

In memory of his son, lately deceased, Professor F. W. Tustin, Ph. D., of the Class of 1856, has paid to the Trustees of the University the sum of five hundred dollars, "as the foundation of the HERBERT TUSTIN PRIZE FUND, the interest of which is to be forever paid annually as two prizes, in the proportion of twenty dollars for the First Prize, and of ten dollars for the Second Prize, to the two students of the Senior Class who shall have attained the highest and the second highest standing in Psychology and in Ethics. (under such regulations as to the pursuit of these studies as the Faculty of the College shall prescribe from time to time,) and whose conduct for the last two years of their course in College shall have been without exception."

THE DAVID HENRY EVANS PRIZE.

In memory of his deceased classmate, David Henry Evans, Mr. Henry M. Wolf, Jr., of the class of 1880, has established an annual prize of ten dollars, to be awarded to that member of the Sophomore Class who shall write the best English composition on an assigned subject. The Committee of Award consists of the President, the Professor of Rhetoric, and one other chosen by themselves. The subject for the year 1882 is "Longfellow's Place in Literature." The compositions are limited to 2,000 words, and must be presented to the Committee on or before the first day of June.

HONOR EXAMINATIONS.

At a meeting of the Faculty on December 8th, 1879, the following resolution concerning Honor Examinations, was adopted:

Resolved, That in order to promote special scholarship in the several studies taught in the College, the following provision be made, to take effect during the present term and hereafter:

1. Any student who has attained an aggregate average of nine in all the studies of the previous term, may take special work in any Department of the College, under the direction of the Professor in that Department.

2. Such work must be assigned by the Professor, and the method of study prescribed by him.

3. If the student shall attain an aggregate average of nine in all the studies of the current term, and pass a satisfactory examination in the voluntary study before a committee appointed by the Faculty, the work shall be credited to him in the Annual Catalogue of the College.

4. But one such study shall be pursued by any one student during any one term.

5. The Professor under whom the student is working shall have the privilege of requiring a partial examination on the work done at any time during the term, and there may be regular recitations at the Professor's option.

6. After the present year, the amount and quality of this extra work shall be taken into the account in awarding honors at graduation.

The following Honor Examinations have been sustained during the past year:

William Frear, of the Class of 1881, was examined in Structural Zoölogy, having pursued the study during his Senior year under the direction of Professor Groff.

Milton Evans was examined in the Media of Euripides, having pursued the study during the third term of his Junior year under the direction of Professor Tustin; in the Satires of Juvenal, having pursued the study during the first term of his Senior year under the direction of Professor Grier; in advanced Problems in Mechanics, having pursued the study during his Junior year under the direction of Professor Philips.

Clement E. Edmunds was examined in the Symposium of Xenophon, having pursued the study during the third term of his Freshman year under the direction of Professor Tustin.

GOVERNMENT.

The College is in no sense a reform school. It is expected that all who enter its courses of study do so for the purpose of acquiring an education, not only of the intellect but also of character. The Laws of the College, enacted by the Board of Trustees, are as few and simple as the proper regulation of a community of young men will permit. These are printed, and a copy is placed in the hands of every student at the beginning of each year. These Laws must be observed, not only in their letter but in their spirit. The atmosphere of the Institution is not that of arbitrary restraint, but of reasonable conformity to reasonable laws. The College does not wish to place its stamp or bestow its honors upon any one who is not willing to deport himself as a gentleman. Each student is distinctly placed upon his manhood, and if he abuse his privileges, after reasonable caution, he must withdraw from the Institution.

VOLUNTARY SOCIETIES.

There are in College two Literary Societies: The EUEPIAN and the THETA ALPHA. These have meetings on Saturday forenoon of each week for Orations, Essays, and Debates. Each Society has a convenient Hall and a valuable Library, and, by an arrangement of the Faculty, will always have a nearly equal number of members.

THE SOCIETY FOR INQUIRY comprises students from both the College and the University Academy. It receives religious periodicals and corresponds with kindred societies, and with Missionaries in various parts of the world. It has a valuable Library of works relating to Missions. A new Hall has recently been appropriated to the Society, and will be suitably furnished for religious meetings.

EXAMINATIONS.

The dates of the Examinations are given in the Calendar.

In case a student fails to be present at the examination of his Class, for any justifiable reason, his examination will be held at such time as the Faculty may appoint.

The Committee appointed by the Board of Curators to attend upon Examinations the present year, is as follows: Rev. William C. Tilden, A. M.; Rev. George Cooper, A. M.; Rev. A. J. Rowland, D. D.

Besides the Degrees which are conferred at graduation upon those who have honorably completed a course of study established in this College, the Degree of Master of Arts in course is conferred on graduates from the Classical Department, of at least three years' standing, who, meanwhile, have sustained a good moral character and have pursued professional or other studies, and who make application to the President or Secretary of the Faculty, personally or by letter, at least one week previous to Commencement.

THE ACADEMY.

SCOPE OF THE SCHOOL.

The Academy, as re-organized in 1878, combines the advantages formerly afforded by the "Classical Preparatory Department" and the "English Academy." It is designed to fit its pupils thoroughly for College, for Business, or for Teaching. It aims to lay broad and solid foundations for all subsequent scholarly culture, and for the successful conduct of practical every-day affairs. Its several courses of study are adapted to the varying ages and degrees of advancement of its pupils. Its purpose is three-fold, viz. :

I. To fit students for the Classical Course in College. For this it provides two courses of study: (1.) For young students requiring further attention to the elementary branches, and desiring to begin the study of Latin in advance of the Greek, a full THREE YEARS' COURSE, filling every requirement for admission to College, with no waste of time and no needless study. (2.) For more mature students with good preparation in the elementary studies, a TWO YEARS' COURSE, consisting chiefly of classical and mathematical studies, and affording the greatest possible economy of time consistent with thoroughness of preparation.

II. To furnish suitable and sufficient preparation for the Latin Scientific Course in College. With the increasing number of students entering this course, and the increasing demands made for admission, this part of Academic instruction assumes new importance. As far as possible, students preparing for both courses recite together.

III. To provide such a general Academic Course of English, Commercial, and Mathematical studies as may meet the wants of students unable to obtain a collegiate education, yet desiring more extended preparation for Business or for Teaching. Students in Double-Entry Book-Keeping receive individual instruction, and may, therefore, enter at any time and advance as rapidly as their ability will warrant.

Special attention is given, in all the courses of study, to Composition and Declamation; and also to weekly reviews of elementary studies by the advanced classes.

To enter the Classical Preparatory Course, the student should be well prepared in Political Geography, Spelling and Reading, Language Lessons or some elementary English Grammar, and in Written Arithmetic to Percentage.

To enter the Scientific Preparatory Course, the preparation should be the same, with the addition of the completion of Written Arithmetic.

In addition to the regular text-books, students are encouraged to possess and use Ginn and Heath's, or Kiepert's Classical Atlas; Harper's "Student's Classical Dictionary"; White's Junior Student's Latin Lexicon: and Liddell & Scott's Abridged Greek Lexicon.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

ADVANTAGES.

To the student seeking preparation for College, the Academy offers unusual inducements. Its proximity to the College secures to him an atmosphere of study, acquaintance with the guides and companions of his future course, and the benefit of numerous literary exercises to be found only in college towns. He has access to the College Library and Reading-room. The instruction in the Academy is in part given by members of the College Faculty. As far as possible, each Professor teaches such branches in the Academy as are in the line of his College work and special study.

APPLIANCES.

The Academy is now in possession of superior and constantly increasing apparatus for instruction. A select Reference Library, containing an Encyclopedia, Lexicons, Dictionaries, Atlases, and various other helps, is accessible to students at all hours. The Classical Recitation Room is provided with Kiepert's Wall-Maps of Ancient Geography, and with Rheinhard's Album of Classical Antiquities, mounted. Metric apparatus, Maps and Globes render assistance in other directions. A fine new Estey Chapel Organ ministers to the heartiness of Chapel singing.

BUILDING.

The Academy Building is on College Hill and shares the beauty and healthfulness of location, and the ample Campus of the College. It contains a large and commodious Chapel and general School Room, Recitation Rooms and Society Hall; together with the rooms of the Principal's family and the Matron, and accommodations for the Boarding Department.

BOARD AND ROOMS.

The Boarding Department offers home comforts at most moderate charge. The students' rooms are heated by furnaces. They have recently been newly papered, carpeted, and furnished. The Academy supplies and washes all bedding, and provides daily attention to students' rooms. A new and convenient Dining-room has been fitted up on the first floor, thus avoiding the descent to the basement formerly necessary. The Principal and his family and the Matron live in the building, and take their meals with the students. A teacher occupies rooms adjacent to the students' dormitories.

It is expected that all students from a distance, who are under the age of eighteen years, will occupy rooms and board in the Academy. Students of mature years and of limited means may occupy rooms furnished by themselves, in the West wing of the College building, and may board, at their pleasure, in the town boarding-houses, or in clubs, or at the Academy table.

STANDING AND PROMOTION.

The weekly averages of marks for recitations are recorded, and also failures in conduct and attendance. The scale for such markings ranges from 10, or perfect, to 0, or inexcusable failure. Unexcused absences count as zeros in making up the weekly averages.

Oral and Written examinations are held quarterly in the studies thus far completed. The Committee of the Board of Curators appointed to attend upon Examinations in the Academy during the present year, is Rev. George Frear, D. D., Rev. William H. Conard, A. M., and Hon. William B. Leas.

Quarterly reports of the averages in scholarship, attendance, and conduct of each student are sent to parents or guardians by the Principal.

No student is promoted to the next higher class whose average in any study is less than 7.

Students who complete the Academic courses of study creditably, are admitted to standing in the Freshman Class upon the Principal's certificate without separate examination.

Students attaining an average standing of 9, are encouraged to devote spare time to work additional to the regular course of study, and in the line of more complete preparation for College.

HONORABLE MENTION for such special study is here accorded to William Richard Granger and Carl Clayton Law, of the Senior Class of 1881, for Examinations sustained in Book IV of Cæsar's Commentaries and in Book VII of Xenophon's Anabasis. Also to Jonathan Heaton, of the present Senior Class, for Examination in Books III and IV of Cæsar's Commentaries.

RHETORICAL EXERCISES.

The morning recitation hours of Mondays and Thursdays are devoted to Rhetorical Exercises, and to careful training in Vocal Culture. Compositions and Declamations are prepared and presented by all students every month.

The students maintain the "HERMENIAN LITERARY SOCIETY," a voluntary organization for mutual improvement in Literary and Oratorical exercises. They have recently entirely refitted and greatly beautified their large and convenient hall in the Academy building. Here they hold their meetings on Saturday forenoons. The Society possesses the nucleus of a suitable Library.

The Public Exhibition of the Junior Academic Class in Declamation will take place on Saturday evening, April 29th, 1882, in Commencement Hall.

The Principal's second Annual Prize for excellence in Declamation, was awarded last year to Edward Augustus Johnson, of Philadelphia.

Honorable Mention was also accorded to Rodgers Kirk Foster, of Lewisburg.

The closing exercise of the Academy will be the Public Exhibition of the Senior Class in Oratory, on Saturday evening, June 24th, 1882.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

The duties of each day are opened with worship in the Academy Chapel, at which all students are expected to be present.

Regular attendance upon public worship at some church in town, on Sunday morning, is required; also upon services on Thanksgiving Day and the Day of Prayer for Colleges.

The Academic students maintain a weekly prayer meeting on Tuesday evenings, and participate in the meetings of the "Society for Religious Inquiry," of the College.

GOVERNMENT.

Founded and maintained by a great religious Denomination, the School is professedly Christian, although not sectarian. The government will strive to secure uprightness of character, gentlemanly deportment and diligent application to work, by kind treatment, and high standards in conduct and study.

HOURS.

The hours for study and recitation are conformed, as closely as possible, to those of the College, thus securing freedom from interruption, which different arrangements might cause to either Department.

The time devoted to study and recitation amounts to $9\frac{1}{4}$ hours every week-day, except Saturday, when it is only $1\frac{1}{4}$ hours.

The Sessions and Vacations in the Academy are the same as in the College.

COURSES OF STUDY.

I. PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT. The aim of this Department is twofold: 1) To prepare students for the advanced courses of study of the Institute; (2) To furnish a full course of instruction in the branches that are usually taught in the public schools, including Arithmetic, Grammar, Ancient and Modern History, Physical and Descriptive Geography, Book-Keeping, Elementary Science, Reading, Spelling, and Penmanship.

II. THE REGULAR COURSE requires five years for its completion. Two of these are allotted to the work of the Preparatory Department. It comprises the usual branches of a thorough English education, and gives students the choice of three years' study of the Latin or French language.

III. THE LATIN-SCIENTIFIC COURSE includes the same English branches, Science, and Mathematics, as the above Course, and involves four years' study of Latin, and one of each of the modern languages, French and German.

IV. THE SCIENTIFIC-ART COURSE embraces the same English branches, French and German, as the above, and substitutes for the Latin a thorough training in Music or Drawing and Painting.

V. THE CLASSICAL COURSE is substantially the same as that pursued in the best of American colleges. It comprises three years of study in the Preparatory Department, and four years in the regular Course. It embraces as full instruction in the following subjects as the time devoted to study will admit: History, Philology, Natural Science, Mathematics, Art, Psychology, and Ethics.

Bible instruction is given every Wednesday, extending through the entire course.

OPTIONAL STUDIES.

These may be pursued in connection with the studies of the other classes, or more fully and specially in connection with the Scientific-Art Course. Some may be able to pursue an art study in connection with full work in any of the courses. Many, however, may wish to diminish the amount of regular work for the sake of giving special attention to Art. For the benefit of such the Scientific-Art Course has been arranged. It is not necessary for pupils to take all the studies mentioned in the following courses. Those in charge of the departments will select such as are suited to the taste and ability of students.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

The instruction in all departments is thorough. The design of the several courses is to meet the various wants of different classes of students.

On the completion of any Regular Course, with satisfactory examinations in its various studies, young ladies are entitled to a Diploma and Gold Medal.

Only those students whose general deportment and recitations have been satisfactory, and whose examinations are creditable, will be promoted.

Students wishing to enter advanced classes can be examined the day before the term opens, or if more convenient to themselves, during the term.

Those wishing to spend only a single term can pursue their studies with such classes as they are prepared to enter.

The young ladies attend lectures delivered by the President and Professors of the University, and have access to the University Library, Cabinet, and Philosophical Apparatus.

Weekly instruction in Elementary Drawing is given to all the members of the Institute. For those desiring a more thorough knowledge of Drawing and Painting, an extended course of instruction is provided.

The Music Department has well qualified instructors in both Instrumental and Vocal Music. Special attention is given to the cultivation of the voice.

In addition to the Regular Studies in different departments, each pupil has, without extra cost, General Music Instruction weekly, and bi-monthly Rehearsals.

The Institute, though under the control of the Board of Trustees of the University, is entirely separate from the other Departments. The Buildings are situated in a handsome grove of native trees, at a distance from the College Buildings, and are commodious, well ventilated, and furnished with all the appliances necessary to promote the health and comfort of the pupils.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two Literary Societies connected with the Institute, comprising such young ladies as may choose to join. The members have access to a well selected library.

The Alumnae Association holds its anniversary during Commencement week.

GENERAL CULTURE.

The character of each recitation is recorded at the time, and the result, together with a statement of the general industry and deportment of the student, sent to the parent or guardian at the close of each session.

Punctuality is required in every department of study. An absence from the first recitation of a term is just as influential in a student's record as any subsequent absence.

The loss of a single lesson, or the evening or morning study hour, may be felt for weeks. An imperfect recitation often leads to a succession of similar ones; one absence prepares the way for another; finally the student becomes discouraged and abandons all effort.

Special attention is given to the religious training of the young ladies, and every effort is made to surround them with the influences of a pleasant, Christian home.

All are required to attend daily prayers. Social religious meetings are held every Tuesday, for such as choose to attend. On Wednesday, all the members of the Institution receive Bible instruction.

On the Sabbath, students attend public worship with the teachers. They are, however, permitted, on the request of parent or guardian, to attend morning service and Sunday School at any of the other places of public worship in town.

Calls or visits are not allowed on the Sabbath.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

Effort is constantly made to combine mental culture and physical exercise, and thus harmoniously develop all the powers of mind and body.

The health of the pupil is regarded as of first importance, and will never be sacrificed for intellectual attainments.

For the healthful development of the physical system, a commodious Gymnasium has been provided, and furnished with requisite apparatus for light gymnastics.

Daily exercise in the open air is required, when the weather will permit.

GOVERNMENT.

The Principal and Assistant Teachers will ever exercise a watchful care over the morals and health of the students, governing the school by appealing to their better feelings and higher principles—a mode of discipline which has thus far been found entirely successful.

Authority, however, will be maintained; and the requirements made, most certainly enforced.

Students are expected to conduct themselves in a courteous and lady-like manner, both in their intercourse with each other and with their instructors.

The design of the school is not to make money, but to afford an education to those who desire it. Students who do not conform to the laws, and give themselves to study, will be dismissed.

When a student has been placed in the Institution, its laws must prevail; and parents are not expected to interfere by calling their daughters away, or directing their movements during term-time.

ABSTRACT OF LAWS.

1. Each student is expected to engage in such a number of studies as may, in the judgment of the Principal, be sufficient to occupy her whole time.

2. Students from a distance must reside in the Institute.

3. No student can leave the Institute grounds at any time, without permission from the Principal.

4. No student is allowed to contract any debt whatever, without the knowledge and consent of the Principal.

5. Students from a distance are not permitted to visit their homes, nor leave the Institute during the current session to visit with friends and relatives in the town, unless for reasons very satisfactory.

6. None but near relatives, or friends from a distance, are allowed to visit the students, and such visits must be so arranged as not to interfere with the regular hours of study and recitation.

7. Students are not at liberty to invite guests to their private apartments, or to any part of the building, without permission from the Principal.

8. Teachers and students take their meals at the same table, and both are expected to be punctual and exact in the discharge of every duty. An extra charge will be made for all meals sent to rooms, and no special article of food is furnished at the table to any one except in case of sickness.

9. Patrons visiting the young ladies at the Institute may be accommodated with board at fifty cents a day, if there are vacant rooms. In no case will students be required to give up their rooms for visitors. It is expected that all visitors will conform to the rules of the house.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Each student should be provided with an umbrella, overshoes, gymnastic dress, table napkins, towels, and a teaspoon for use in her room. Every article of clothing should be marked with the owner's name in full.

Directions for making the gymnastic costume will be sent to any address upon application.

Parents and Guardians are particularly requested to refrain from furnishing their daughters and wards with the means of procuring cakes and confectionery. All boxes containing eatables will be subject to inspection.

It is especially desired that the dress of the student shall be simple and inexpensive. Simplicity saves time, thought, and money to a scholar, valuable for nobler purposes than mere personal adornment.

Whenever practicable, the wardrobe of the young ladies should be prepared at home, to avoid the necessity of frequent visits to town.

Students will be held responsible for damages done to the rooms they may occupy.

No room will be reserved for a student, unless definitely engaged.
